

Shopping Guide for the Hudson Valley Region of New York

With its antique villages and specialty boutiques, the Hudson Valley Region is the place to find unique gifts and accessories that are sure to tempt any shopaholic.

Millbrook Antiques Mall is where you'll find a lineup of antique dealers and boutiques filled with collectibles from days gone by. With over 40 shops in one small area, it's easy to explore some of the world's most coveted collectibles and unique art pieces all on one trip. Head here when you want to build your own antique collection or find a special gift.

If you're only looking for contemporary retail stores, make your way to the Newburgh Mall that houses over 65 brand name retailers, or the Woodbury Common Premium Outlets center to pick up designer merchandise at a discount. You'll want to wear your walking shoes for this trip, and be prepared to come home with a few extra shopping bags.

Another place to explore stores such as Macy's, JCPenney and Target is at Hudson Valley Mall, a popular venue for locals and visitors alike to pick up the latest collections and last-minute gifts. You'll also find a food court and espresso café if you need to fuel up between shopping rounds.

Browse the handcrafted furniture collection at Hunt Country Furniture, the place for classic country-style post beds, armoires, buffets and dining tables. It's the inviting shop to find quality wood furniture in both classic and contemporary styles.

Whether you're an antique collector or style-savvy shopper looking for a unique gift, the Hudson Valley Region is home to several unique venues for any taste. Head to the mall or the local boutiques for a roundup of treats that are sure to please your inner shopaholic.
